HDM's Chief Executives to Speak at IIA's Signature Event in Orlando

King of Prussia, PA (January 29, 2007) – At one of the most in-demand networking and professional growth opportunities for audit professionals, HDM's David McSweeney, Chief Operating Officer, and Chester A. Spychalski, Jr., Chief Financial Officer, will present "Self-Insured Health Plans and Sarbanes-Oxley Act Compliance" during the IIA's General Audit Management Conference to be held March 19 to 21, 2007 at the Gaylord Palms Resort™ in Kissimmee, Florida.

The issues of internal controls, system updates and modifications plan design, discounts, medical management, eligibility all ultimately impacts the self-insured employer's ability to accurately report quarterly and annual expenses. McSweeney and Spychalski will speak on March 19 about how healthcare audits can help reduce costs and risks for self-insured organizations through the enhanced detection and prevention of healthcare administrator and physician/hospital billing errors and fraud. McSweeney and Spychalski will also review healthcare audit best practices that have the potential to generate significant savings.

This IIA flagship event is tailored to CAEs, audit committee and board members, and financial and executive management and will feature keynote speaker Tom Ridge, former governor of Pennsylvania and the nation's first Secretary of Homeland Security. Additional industry experts, like McSweeney and Spychalski, will discuss critical issues regarding compliance, governance, and more. Attendees are eligible for up to 17 Continuing Professional Education (CPE) credits. Conference attendance is limited and the 2006 event was sold out. Contact the IIA to register.
